

Buddhist Digital Resource Center is dedicated to preserving and sharing Buddhist texts through the union of technology and scholarship.

Learn more about our current programs.

DONATE

Preservation

Of Buddhist cultural heritage.

Access

Making data publicly accessible.

News

We are pleased to announce the arrival of the TBRC exhibition space on the Google Cultural Institute (GCI) platform, online and via mobile device. The TBRC partnership with GCI will allow people worldwide to intimately explore and interact with high-resolution images from select manuscripts in our digital archive.

Read more...

Beloved Buddhist monk, scientist, photographer, author, and humanitarian Matthieu Ricard made time on Friday to visit the TBRC office, sharing stories, memories, and tea with TBRC staff. A longtime friend of TBRC founder Gene Smith, Matthieu was in the area to give a talk at Harvard University on his newly released book, Altruism: The Power of Compassion to Change Yourself and the World.

Read more...

We were honored and pleased to host Venerable Khenchen Konchog Gyaltsen Rinpoche at TBRC this week.

Read more...

We were pleased to host David Weinberger, Ph.D. as part of the Berman Speaker Series at TBRC.

Read more...

Khenpo Karma Jamyang Gyaltsen visited TBRC on Friday afternoon, touring the TBRC office and joining us for lunch.

Read more...

Places

Cambridge, MA

Our main office is centrally located in Harvard Square, Cambridge Massachusetts, USA. In Cambridge, we scan, catalog, research, and collaborate with local institutions.

Hangzhou

Zhejiang University (ZJU) serves as an operational hub for BDRC in the region, and provides a central site for technical innovation and implementation.

New Delhi

Our work in New Delhi is primarily focused on scanning projects and text acquisition.

Bangkok

BDRC's Field Office in Bangkok, Thailand, is the central location for scanning and processing of Peter Skilling's Fragile Palm Leaves Collection.

Partners

Zhejiang University

Robert H. N. Ho Family Foundation

Lama Lineage Project

Khyentse Foundation

Fragile Palm Leaves Foundation

University of Virginia

Harvard University

See our progress,
Join the newsletter

Your email ...

Subscribe

Buddhist Digital Resource Center
1430 Massachusetts Ave., 5th floor
Cambridge, MA, USA 02138
+1-617-354-7900

Contact us
Legal
Donate

